

Abstract

The present invention concerns a sensor surface with an improved signal/noise ratio that is based on a blocking reagent covalently immobilized on the sensor surface, as well as 5 apparatuses comprising such surfaces and methods for the use of same.